ALABAMA COLLEGE Women
IN A WORLD at WAR

PORTRAYING Student Life

and its place in DEFENSE

Registering for Civilian Defense, Alabama College's first blackout, saving waste paper in the bin in the Tower, men in uniform, airplanes droning overhead, censored letters, free mail, tires and taxi service, sewing and knitting for the Red Cross, no cokes in the Tea Room, more third-finger-left-hand jewelry—these were some of the highlights of 1941-42 at Alabama College, when the students first experienced living in a world at war.

While the changes the War has brought about so far in this year have been relatively slight compared to the changes yet to come, students' lives have been more affected by the War in less tangible ways. A new attitude of earnestness pervaded the campus, along with a desire to keep fit, to be informed, and above all, to contribute something worthwhile to the Cause. Every phase of student life was intensified. Indeed, intensification was the keynote of 1941-42. Each Alabama College girl was stirred to want to do her share in this biggest job to which her country had ever called her.

DEDICATED to

The ideal woman in a world at war—

Alert and social-minded, she senses the need for work to be done.

Once her worthwhile work is chosen, she displays energy and initiative in doing it.

Enthusiastic and cooperative, the attitude with which she tackles a job is an inspiration.

Because of the service she has rendered and is rendering, we are happy to dedicate the '42 Montage to Miss Margaret McCall.

Miss Margaret McCall

Educating consumers is just one of the many ways in which college helps to make citizens more useful to a country at war. Since trained workers are such a vital necessity in present-day life, especially as it has been complicated by the war, the value of college training cannot be overemphasized. Not only are more careers being opened to women, but women's responsibilities will be greater. To make the most of their opportunities and to meet their responsibilities with flying colors, women are sensible to start or continue a college education, wherever it is possible, more so today than ever before.

The GOVERNOR

The four years of Governor Frank M. Dixon's able and fearless administration have been years of progress for the State of Alabama. His leadership has challenged us to develop our own powers to their fullest extent and to use them in the service of our State and of our Nation. Alabama College students have heard the challenge and will not fail to meet it.

The Montage for the year Nineteen Hundred Forty-Two is a Book of History. It is a faithful portrayal of young college women during one of the most eventful years of all time. The earnest student of the years to come will search its pages diligently in the effort to appraise the character and conduct of students under the stress and strain of a devastating war. The pages of this book will reveal a company of splendid young women who came to college in September of the year nineteen hundred forty-one, superficially care-free and intent on characteristic pleasures. Likewise, there will be revealed a superb dignity and responsiveness when the terrible shock of war fell upon them. It will be discovered that, true to the history and traditions of their sex, they rose mightily to all the tragedy of the times. Unwilling victims of war, they went their gentle ways, eternally feminine, enduring admirably, boasting their loves, and secretly nourishing their sorrows. The careful reader will discover that their weaknesses were the weaknesses of all the women of their times and that their glorious strength was the strength that only women possess. They were gay and smiling in the face of every sort of adversity. They were strong-willed and bold as occasion required. They were young dreamers, never losing their vision of a world to come—free and at peace. Their hope was undaunted; their faith so great that it could remove mountains of despair.

Spiritually, they were worthy of Browning's immortal lines:

"Grow old along with me!
The best is yet to be,
The last of life, for which the first was made:
Our times are in His hand
Who saith "A whole I planned,
Youth shows but half; trust God: see all, nor be afraid."

Palmer Hall

From a student's first registration to her graduation, Palmer, the Administration building, is the center of most of the business and many of the cultural phases of her College life.

The DEAN'S MESSAGE

To the Students of Alabama College:

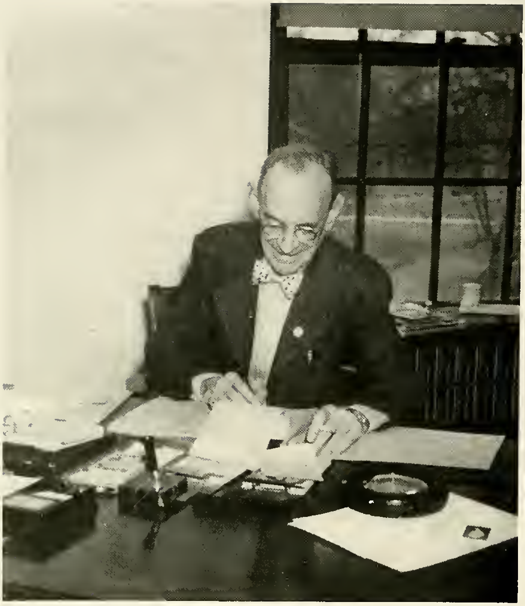
During these difficult days, many perplexing problems are faced by every thoughtful and patriotic citizen. This is especially true of those who are on the college campus. Students are anxious to do their part, but the difficulty lies in deciding the course that each should pursue at the moment. There has been little evidence on this campus of confusion as a result of the crisis. Students have revised daily schedules so that they can cooperate with the Government in the Defense Program, and so that they can get the preparation necessary for the next step, insofar as it can be anticipated.

This period of dislocation has increased tremendously the demand for college trained women. Those who are able to attend college should stay in school and hasten the time of graduation as much as possible against the day when the country needs them and issues the call for service. There has never been a time when a sense of responsibility and a sense of duty to the democratic way of life were so important. All must work and like it, and every service, however humble, is honorable and should be performed well. The future should be faced in the spirit of the pioneer, which manifests itself in the ability to postpone immediate rewards for the larger rewards that will be won. If our people ever needed discipline, they need it now, and each should remember that orderly human conduct depends in large measure on correct inhibitions as well as on correct reactions.

(Signed) T. H. NAPIER.

Reynolds Hall

Hardly a day passes that each Alabama College student does not go to Reynolds, because it provides such an attractive environment for various social activities.



E. H. WILLS

MR. WILLS

To the Student Body:

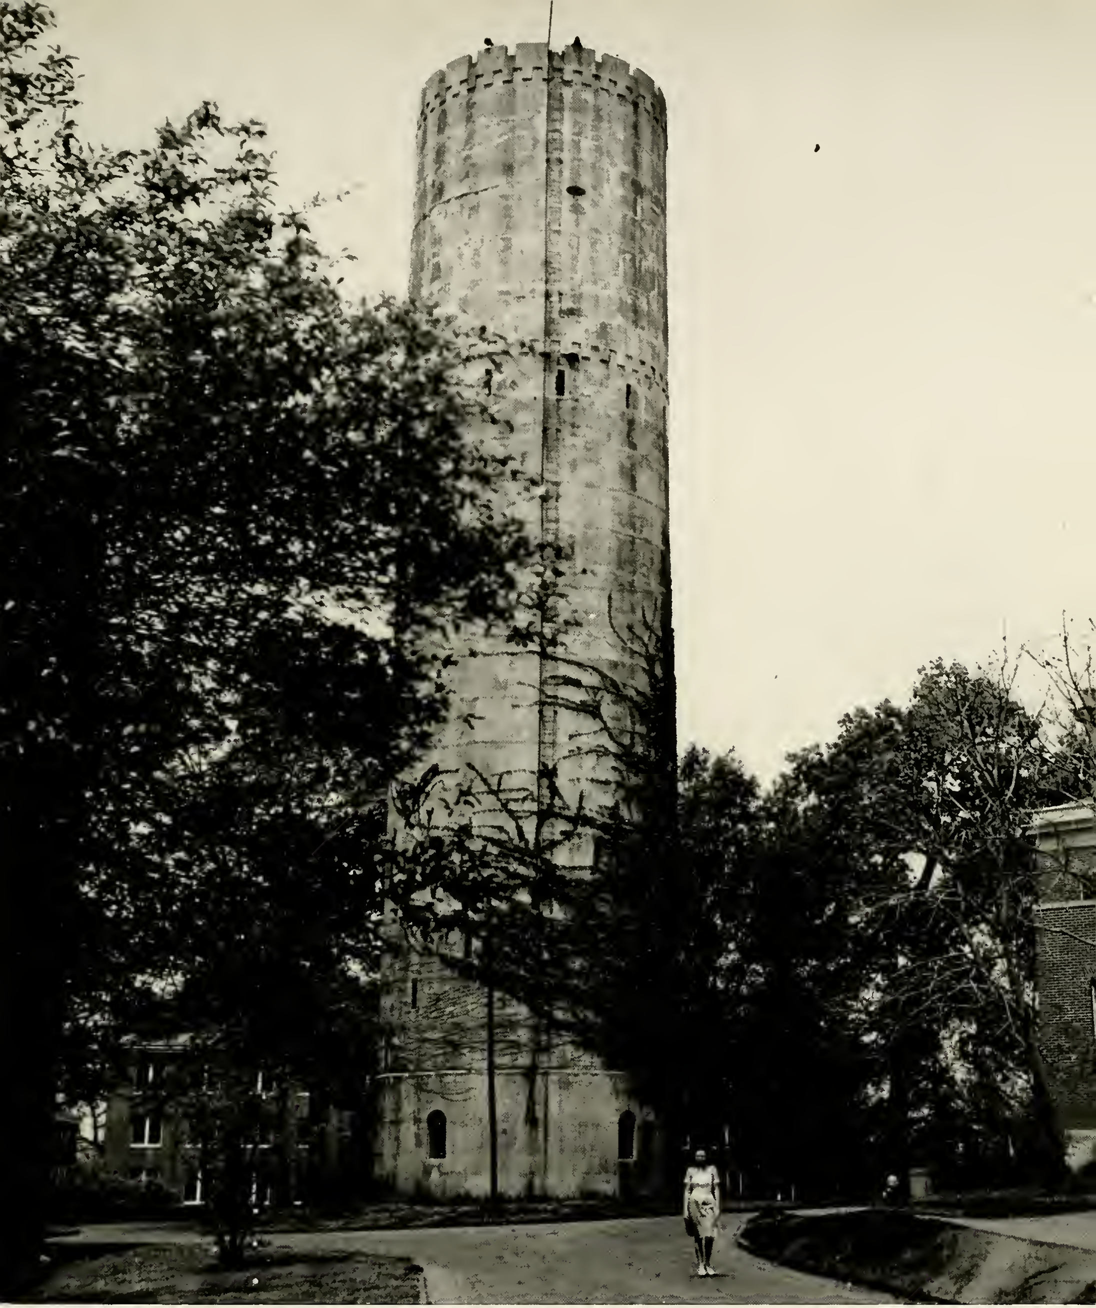
During the present crisis in the affairs of our country the duty of the Alabama College student is much the same as that of any other American citizen.

So much has been said and written about this that anything that I might say would be only repetition—so try to remember that:

You should do your College work to the best of your ability; help in the war effort in any way that you can; avoid waste, and endeavor to be a GOOD AMERICAN.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed): HOUSTON WILLS.



The Tower

Hung with leafy vines in summer and icicles in winter, the Tower is the hub of the campus, supporting the water supply and the fire siren.

Calkins Hall

Students do not have to tell strangers that Calkins is the music hall.

New classes, new attitudes, seriousness, earnestness—Alabama College girls have found all these in their class rooms this year. Older courses have had an added significance. It has become increasingly important to get these laboratory experiments just right, to pass that speed test, to know economic principles, to learn about diets and nutrition, and to do these things accurately and quickly. Students are enrolling for new classes in laboratory technique, foods, clothing, crafts, typewriting, home nursing, and many others. Countless girls are abandoning golf and tennis for first aid, leaving the class rooms and "learning by doing" community recreation in Childersburg, Sylacauga, Talladega, and other sections where the war has brought new problems.

Our
ALMA MATER

In the heart of Alabama
Dwells our Alma Mater star;
Through her purple gleams of golden
Call her daughters from afar.
For aye shall we adore thee,
Thy fame has spread before thee,
For aye shall we adore thee,
Hail to thee, hail to thee!

For aye shall we adore thee,
Thy fame has spread before thee,
All hail, all hail,
Alma Mater, hail to thee!

On to joy and fame and service
Points this guardian of our youth;
And she lights the untried journey
With her matchless beams of truth.
For aye shall we adore thee,
Thy fame has spread before thee,
For aye shall we adore thee,
Hail to thee, hail to thee!

Long shall live our Alma Mater;
Mighty leader of her peers;
While our love and praise and rev-'rence
Ever deepens with the years.
For aye shall we adore thee,
Thy fame has spread before thee.
For aye shall we adore thee.
Hail to thee, hail to thee!

Led by pages, the academic procession starts into Palmer for the Founders' Day Service.

We Celebrate FOUNDERS' DAY

Alabama College could have had forty-six candles on its birthday cake on Founders' Day this year. Founders' Day on October 12 marks a milestone not only for the College, but also for each Senior, because on this occasion the Seniors wear their caps and gowns for the first time in public, and take part in their first academic procession.

This year the impressive ceremony was as nearly like the first Founders' Day as possible. Dr. George F. Thomas of Princeton University, President of the American Theological Society, delivered the address on "Religion and Education," and the Glee Club provided special music.

Dr. George F. Thomas chats with Dr. Harman on the porch at Flower Hill, the President's home.

Between the white of the Glee Club and the black of the Seniors, the guests taking part in Founders' Day have the place of honor on the stage.

The SENIOR CLASS

"No, I'm not a Freshman—I'm a Senior!" the Senior answers the inevitable Freshman query during Orientation Week. The true dignity of Seniorhood is not brought home to her, however, until she wears her cap and gown in her first academic procession on Founders' Day. The Class of '42 has started a tradition by having an Investiture Service when the Seniors will first put on their caps and gowns.

Even though the Senior may take a few crip courses to provide leeway for the Tea Room, she diligently copes with block ed and practice-teaching, keeping an eye out for Podunk next year. Or perhaps the practice home or case work is the highest bidder for her time.

Tutwiler—to the Freshmen, it is the home of luxury; to the Sophomores, of the rockola and fun room; to the Juniors, of the Crook. To the Seniors, it is home.

More than ever before, the Senior enjoys her extra-curricular activities, showing her active interest in national defense. Occasionally she experiences a pang, as when she realizes that she won't be taking part in College Night next year. With spring elections and Installation, she relinquishes her leadership to the Juniors, but not until she has made them feed on that special brand of humble pie baked only during Crook Week!

Caught up in the final kaleidoscopic whirl—Dean's tea, President's reception, Governor's reception, Senior Ball—the Senior dizzily buys an engagement book, trying to keep up with the ever-quickening tempo of her life.

Before she has had time to catch her breath, Commencement is staring her in the face. Amid palpitations and congratulations, the Senior receives her sheepskin and Dr. Harman's blessing, flings her tassel from right to left, and emerges a full-fledged alumna.

The JUNIOR CLASS

The 1942 brand of Juniors are thrilled over really getting into their major subjects—being allowed to observe at the high school, and even teach a little; to work with "dangerously pathogenic" germs; to manipulate intricate office machines; or to have a Welfare client of their own.

With unwarranted eagerness the Juniors look forward to Crock Week. Thanks to two years' broadening experience of being Purple and Gold, they plunge into College Night like seasoned troupers. Full of surprises for the faculty, the secret envy of the Sophomores, and the lowest form of matter to the Seniors, the Juniors are a constant source of amazement to themselves, as they begin to discover their own unrealized possibilities.

Waiting for the dinner bell, Juniors and a few Seniors bask in the sun in front of Hanson.

The Class of 1943 can boast of having been one of the largest freshman classes in the history of the College. That the Juniors excel in quality as well as quantity is shown by the traffic jam their Valentine Junior Prom created on the campus. The Class gift to the College—four exquisite silver candelabra and matching silver bowls for Reynolds Hall—attests to their good taste.

With such a galaxy of talent to choose from, there was never any doubt that this year's Juniors would furnish capable leadership for next year's Student Government, no matter how spring elections turned out.

Returning to her Alma Mater in the fall, the Sophomore jauntily slides back into the old familiar round. The Sophomore knows the ropes, knows that she knows, and yearns to impress others—especially Freshmen—with her knowledge. Nevertheless, she did let down her hair and make the Freshmen realize that she is a good sport after all by entertaining them at a gay street dance in front of Ramsay.

Thoroughly exposed to Dashiell's General Psychology and Sophomore lit., she catches enough of them to pass—she hopes—for all her smug exterior, gets her fingers into every pie being baked on the campus, and still gives the Freshmen the impression that she is "just sailing." On the whole, the upperclassmen are patient with her.

PHOMORE CLASS

Bristling with clever ideas, the Sophomores captured the holiday spirit in their Christmas Hop, presenting their lead-outs from a bright Christmas package.

For months the Sophomore breezily gets by—with occasional interludes of really hard work. Then fate, in the form of the dreaded three-day general culture exams, overtakes her. After she has digested cedar, graphite and fingernails from this experience, she is a more normal human-being, and a really fine one, all set to go places.

By the time the Freshman's two well-sharpened pencils have worn down to stubs, she is quite at home at Alabama College. In the meantime helpful, if sometimes patronizing, upperclassmen and understanding faculty have oriented her both in her school work and that somewhat strange but progressively happier new dormitory life as well. Whatever her talents or interests, she finds that Alabama College does have a place for her.

COMMITTEE FOR FIRST SEMESTER

MARY BOYD, FAY BLAKE, BETTY PERRYMAN, HELEN LOKEY

The FRES

From wistaria-hung arches to the fire escapes, from Buzzard to the Old Dining Room, Main, oldest and biggest of the dormitories, has echoed to Freshman life for three generations.

HMAN CLASS

Gradually learning her way around, she discovers that it's not really "Miss Mattie Lee Bursar" but "Miss Mattie Lee—Bursar!" The rest of those opening weeks she spends sliding down the fire escape and—if she doesn't watch out—gaining weight. True, home was never like this, but there is too much to do to stay homesick for long. Soon she has mastered the technique of whipping up those Montevallo feasts, and of keeping her room in apple pie order—one jump ahead of the housemother.

Pretty and popular, the Freshmen furnished a high percentage of the Elite Night beauties. Graciously they entertained about fifty Service Men at their Freshman Hop, which centered around a Chattanooga Choo-choo theme! In record time the Class of '45 have become contributing citizens of the College.

The extra-curricular activities of Alabama College provides experiences that are especially meaningful to women in a world at war. Participating in Student Government, students learn democracy can and does work. From working with publications students gain a knowledge of the value of news and propaganda. In the organizations students have the opportunity not only for constructive service but—equally important—those stimulating social contacts so vital in the development of personality.

President Betty Ann Biggs waits for latecomers to scurry to their places before she begins Student Body Meeting.

Student GOVERNMENT

The year 1941-42 was climactic in the history of Student Government on the campus. Under the dynamic leadership of Betty Ann Biggs, Student Government has been infused with a real spirit of student participation and interest. Student Body meetings have been spontaneous and informal, with free, open discussions, helping students to gain a more thorough knowledge of the operation of their government. The Executive Board, composed of members elected from each class, and house presidents elected from each dormitory, and the cooperative houses, has functioned most successfully.

From Orientation to spring elections and Installation, the Student Government Association has played a vital role in directing student affairs. The many activities Student Government has sponsored have clicked off with smooth efficiency. Its most outstanding achievement was College Night.

After spring elections, delegates were sent to the Southern Student Federation at Baton Rouge, Louisiana, representing both the old and new Student Government Associations.

COLLEGE NIGHT for the Alabama College

Red ink is too pallid for the dates February 27 and 28 on the Alabama College calendar; College Night deserves Broadway lights. A masterpiece of cooperative effort, this all-student production offers something worthwhile for every girl on the campus to do, whatever her talents or ability.

Arming themselves with super-colossal dramatic and musical creations, Purples and Golds have one short month to prepare for the final battle. Ideas burst like incendiary bombs, kindling enthusiasm all around; or from a not-so-practical suggestion, more workable plans are evolved.

The two rival camps eye each other defiantly across a gulf of secrecy. Writers and composers emerge slightly moth-eaten, actresses mutter lines, directors hurry to rehearsals, while backstage crews untiringly adjust spots and struggle with cycs. At rallies and song-practices, excitement vibrates almost tangibly in the air.

"Let's wait for the judges to decide," Betty Ann Biggs seems to be saying to Purple Leader Virginia Boykin and Gold Leader Pat Bazenhard . . . Right after their election, the leaders congratulate each other, backed up by their Assistant Leaders, Edwina Morgan for the Golds and Carolyn Rowe for the Purples . . . Business Managers Elizabeth Taylor and Sue Oden keep the Golds and Purples out of the red . . . The Gold and Purple Cabinets line up at the Tea Dance.

PRESENTS

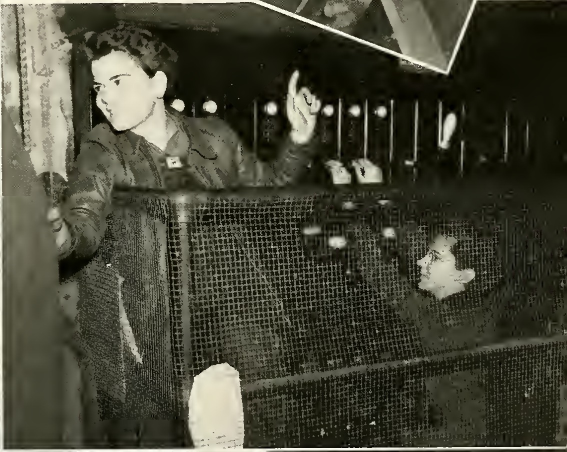
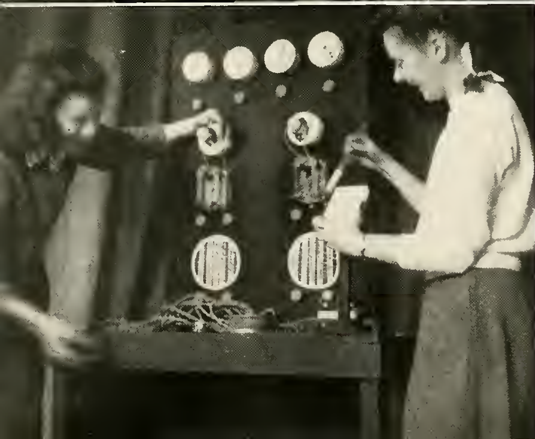
Visitors stream onto the campus to watch the final showdown. Their appreciative applause showed their enjoyment of the show, and their approval of its dedication to the "Man in the Service."

When other college memories have faded into mistiness, students' recollections of College Night will stand out like a beacon in a blackout.

"Am I a Purple or a Gold?" . . . The Purple staging crew know the ropes . . . The Gold lighting crew waits for its cue . . . Good practice for working in defense industry, perhaps! . . . "Yea, Golds!"





PURPLE

"We did it before, and we can do it again," sang the Purples, and they did! From start to finish they "took their fun with all their might, trying to win College Night." (Misquoted from the Purple Pep Song.) The Purple Slow Song was a beautiful poem expressing a serene confidence and faith in the future.

Against the somber background of England at war, The White Cliffs, which the Purples adopted from Alice Duer Miller's poem, told the inspiring story of a courageous American woman's devotion to her adopted country.

Literally a circus, the Purple Stunt, Flying Flossie's Flight, was too big for the stage. A motley crew of circus characters romped all over Palmer, while the audience howled at their antics. It was not monotonous. Yes, after winning last year, the Purples really "did it again!"

Flying Flossie flies again. "Has anybody seen Hoiman?" "But, Mother, you don't understand." "Definitely wrong number!" The vicar hates to break his bad news. "I have loved England . . ."

and GOLD

According to the Gold Pep Song, College Night invaded even the funny papers. A calm philosophy of life was expressed in the Golds' exquisite Slow Song, which pointed out that people pass through periods of stress only to return to normalcy—"the even tenor of our way."

The Gold Dramatization, Flight, was the stirring story of a pioneer aviatrix. Amy's infectious enthusiasm and zest for life, her burning desire to do something worthwhile, and her boundless youthful optimism captivated the audience. Though in a way she failed, her dauntless spirit can not die.

Imagine the consternation of three amateur crooks who find themselves in a haunted mansion, where portraits and statues come to life to heckle their uninvited guests with wisecracks galore and ghoulish revels. The dead degenerates of the supercilious Vander-Asterbuilt family had more fun than they had ever had in their pleasure-seeking lifetimes. They were at their best in a ghostly conga chain.

Although the Golds lost this round of College Night, they were not too disappointed because they realized that there's always a next year.

"Me—I was framed . . ." " . . . just a few cows and some goats and a couple of Purps!" Look out, Bo, it's alive! One of the black sheep of the Vander-Asterbuilt family. "Honolulu, can you hear me?" Driven by a dauntless spirit, Amy visualizes new worlds to conquer. Well, knock me down with a feather!

The STUDENT SENATE

The Student Senate, largely a service organization as well as a legislative branch of Student Government, strives to foster a finer College spirit, better conduct, and solid achievement.

Under Mary Grace Orr's effective leadership, the Senate registered all students for Civilian Defense work. The Officers of the Senate and the Chairmen of the four major committees within it have acted as a Defense Council for the Student Body.

The Senate performs many useful jobs around the campus, such as conducting the Alabama Institute of Student Opinion. This year the Senate acted as hostesses to several hundred high school students, who were guests of the College for major functions.

Happy the May Queen the sun shines on! A replica of the tower—"beautiful and useful"—furnished an appropriate background for exotic brunette beauty of Queen Mary Ware and the quiet dignity and poise of Best Citizen Margaret Stallworth, and their court. The Dance Group capered through a clever presentation of The Pied Piper of Hamelin. Charlotte Meinwald's creation of the Pied Piper was unforgettable.

Y. W. C. A.

If a prize were offered to Alabama College organizations for size and for variety of activities, the Y. W. C. A. ought to have it in the bag. The only religious organization on the campus to include in its membership every student, the "Y" tries to lead all those to whom its influence may extend to realize a full and more creative life. Emma Anderson, poised, competent, and smiling, has led the work of the "Y" this year along with a wide-awake Cabinet, and capable, understanding faculty advisers.

In addition to its four class organizations, the "Y" sponsored Vespers, Evening Watch, Step-Singing, Religious Emphasis Week, and the ever-popular Tea Room. Taking an active part in Orientation, the "Y" gave each Freshman a Sis-Major and had a party for them during Orientation. Besides completing the furnishing of the "Y" and Religious Minorities Rooms, it sponsored the World Student Service Fund drive. This year the Red Cross Committee was added to the "Y" program, doing knitting and sewing.

To the Southern Regional Conference at Blue Ridge, N. C., last June the "Y" sent seven delegates. It sent two students and two advisers to the State Conference at the University of Alabama last fall, and three students and one adviser to the National Assembly in Ohio in December.

The PUBLICATIONS Board

"A bigger and better Publications Board" might literally have been the motto of that body this year. Chairman Melba Ruth Jones' work has resulted in added prestige for the Publications Board. Under its new Constitution, the Publications Board has eighteen instead of eleven members, the Chairman will be elected by the entire student body instead of by the Board from the Senior Class representatives, as was formerly true, and the Chairman is now a member of the Presidents' Council.

The Board elects the Editors and Business Managers of the three student publications, approves contracts and budgets, and generally supervises the Tower, the Alabamian, and the Montage. In addition to its regular duties, the Board helped with Orientation.

The TOWER

"Paging all poets—contributions greatly appreciated" has been the theme of the Tower's song this year. The purpose of the campus literary magazine is to encourage students to express themselves in the creative writing of prose and poetry. Moods and opinions, book reviews and philosophy reveal the personalities and ideas of our campus authors. The Tower staff and free-lance writers get the eager cooperation of English classes in creative writing. In accordance with the conservation program of our National Government, the Tower will be in only one edition instead of two smaller ones as was its former custom.

The ALAB

Every two weeks students, their families, and members of the Alumnae Association pounce with delight on their copies of the Alabamian, the school newspaper. The Alabamian not only seeks to keep its readers informed about campus current events, but also it expresses and helps to crystallize student opinion in its editorials and letters to the editor. Pitts' clever cartoons, a spicy gossip column, and record and book reviews are features everyone looks forward to.

Jeanne Appleton deserves a special pat on the back for her excellent job of editing. She does her own thinking, and has the courage of her convictions. The Alabamian this year has tried to keep students aware of wider-than-local news and of their part in national defense.

A synthesis of many contributions, this annual owes its being not only to diligent staff-workers, encouraging faculty advisers, and professional craftsmen, but also to every student who merely kept her appointment to smile at Mrs. Yeager. The annual is a picture of college life—a picture made by students, teachers and friends, a happy picture, yet one tempered with ambition and purpose.

Photographers need good dispositions and skill—Carolyn Breaux and Virginia West have plenty of both.

To tell the story of a year bringing as many new things as this year has brought is not a simple thing. Incomplete as this record must be, the Montage staff hopes that in the future years it can serve as the loose stone that starts an avalanche of memories of this momentous year, '41-'42.

At all times organizations are a vital part of college life, giving the students a chance for enjoyable and profitable association with people of different interests. This year, however, with their programs and projects centered around defense activities, most of the groups have helped students realize the many important contributions they as college women can make in the national emergency. For example, several of the organizations have entertained soldiers and defense workers with programs. The International Relations Club deserves special recognition for the weekly news discussions it has sponsored.

PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

To smooth the kinks out of the organization set-up of Alabama College is the main job of the Presidents' Council. Composed of all the presidents of campus organizations, it is a coordinating and advisory body. Working out a schedule of non-conflicting meeting times for the College's forty-odd organizations, auditing their treasury books, and helping to prepare the Student Handbook are some of the duties of the Council. Trying to encourage the proper amount of partipication in extra-curricular activities for each individual student, the Council manages the recording of activity points; this year it revised the activity point system.

The Presidents' Council took part in the Orientation Program by writing letters to each Freshman, acting as pages and tour guides, and by entertaining Freshmen and the Orientation Committee at a theatre party. It gave a Christmas dinner for the student body in the dining room. Last spring the Council assisted the Senate with Honors' Day, entertaining the honorary organizations at an informal dinner.

In May, 1941, the Council approved the Constitution of Sigma Alpha Sigma, honorary secretarial fraternity, and supervised its establishment on the campus. The revised constitution of the Publications Board was approved by the Council, and the Chairman of the Publications Board was made a member of the Council to replace the editors of the three campus publications. The Chairman of the Religious Council was made a member of the Council in order to stimulate better cooperation between religious organizations and other campus organizations.

The President of the Presidents' Council attended the annual meeting of the Southern Federation of College Students and Press Representatives at Louisiana State University.

Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education was the first honor society on the campus, installed in 1929. It has had its programs this year centered around education in its relationship to defense. The outstanding feature of the year was the election of the local adviser, Dr. Katherine Vickery, as the first vice-president of National Kappa Delta Pi. Imo Heacock, president of the local Beta Lambda chapter, attended the National Convention at San Francisco, where this election was held. In addition, several delegates attended a state Kappa Delta Pi breakfast in Birmingham during the meeting of the Alabama Educational Association.

Omicron Nu, a national honorary society in home economics, purposes to recognize and promote scholarship, leadership, and research in this field. Members are majors in home economics who have high scholastic records, thus giving promise of future achievement. Alpha Gamma Chapter was established at Alabama College in 1931.

Club meetings were composed of a series of lectures on "The Place of Home Economics in War and Post-War Times." As a research problem the group compiled a booklet of table service and etiquette for use in home economics departments of Alabama high schools. After a year's trial use, the booklet will be revised and published.

Membership in the Glee Club proper is based chiefly on faithful work in the associate Glee Club, to which any student is welcome without examination. The Glee Club has one of the largest memberships on the campus and is one of the most active clubs, meeting regularly three times a week. It has made about fifty public appearances this year. While many of these appearances have been on the campus—some in connection with other organizations—the Glee Club has taken several trips in Alabama and Florida, singing at U. S. O. centers in Selma, Montgomery, and Pensacola; at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola; at Eglin Field at Valparaiso; at the dedication of a new U. S. O. building in Childersburg; and for defense workers in Childersburg and Talladega.

The thirtieth chapter of National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity, was installed at the College in 1936. Its purpose is to affiliate with other college groups for the improvement of dramatic techniques and interpretation of dramatic literature.

The members of National Collegiate Players have been active in dramatic productions this year, having prominent places in the cast of almost every play given on the campus.

This group has entertained many students and visiting artists who have been on the campus, including the Chekhov Players, and Otto Blum and Sally Woodall. They served as hostesses at the Drama Festival held this spring for the first time.

Undergraduate members: Lois Blake, Ezelle Banner, Jeanne Espy, Carolyn Norris, and Dorothy Watson. Associate members: Miss Ellen-Haven Gould, Mrs. Willilee A. Trumbauer, Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer.

The Ivol Spofford Club promotes further professional interest and good fellowship among students majoring in home economics. It is a member of the National Association of Student Clubs. Formerly the Home Economics Club, this year the club adapted the name of Miss Ivol Spofford, a writer and teacher prominent in this field. Miss Spofford was especially active in establishing vocational home economics in Alabama.

At a formal banquet in January, the club entertained 140 members and the home economics staff.

As a project on the campus a committee of the members sponsored the collection of waste paper for defense.

DIETETICS CLUB

The Dietetics Club was founded in 1937 to promote group study and social enjoyment of persons interested in this field. The club had among its guest speaker Miss Sue Scottergood, a newspaper foods-editor, and Miss Ethel Summeraur, a hospital dietician. As a project, the club provided nutrition posters throughout the Montevallo High School. BIOLOGY CLUB

The Biology Club has been active on the campus for over fifteen years. At present there are about 40 members of the club, which is open to all who are interested in the study of biology.

The Club meets monthly to study things concerning biology which the members are most interested in at the present time. This year the meetings have concerned men and women in biological sciences and research and their parts in the national defense and war efforts.

A Christmas party and a picture show party for the members are among the entertainments sponsored for the members this year.

Organized in 1924, Le Cercle Francais is open to anyone interested in French. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in French, to broaden appreciation of the French culture, and to foster an understanding of France as a nation. Its varied programs have included short plays, discussion of contemporary problems in France, and talks by speakers who have first-hand information on France in the War.

The Spanish Club, organized in 1937, promotes interest on the campus in the Spanish language and the culture and customs of Spanish-speaking countries. This year special emphasis has been placed on fostering closer relations between Latin-American countries and the United States. Anita Ortiz, the student from Costa Rica, has contributed a great deal to the meetings, helping with the Spanish games and songs.

OFFICERS

LUCILE ARGO	President
MARTHA McRAE	Secretary-Treasurer

Delta Phi Alpha is an honorary German fraternity which seeks to honor excellence in German and thereby to give students an incentive for higher scholarship.

The fraternity aims to promote the study of the German language, literature, and civilization; to further an interest in and a better understanding of the German-speaking people; and to foster a sympathetic appreciation of German culture.

The Mu Chapter located at Alabama College is inactive at present, due to small membership and the condition of world affairs. It consists of two members, Martha McRae and Lucile Argo, and the faculty adviser, Dr. Edgar C. Reinke.

Members: Dorothy Belk, Martha McRae, Virginia Pitts, Dorothy Sandlin, Frances Wilson.

Pi Delta Phi is a national honorary society in French. The Lambda Chapter, established on the campus in 1936, has for its aim the recognition of merit in the study of French literature, language and civilization in American universities and the extension of French culture in America.

Active membership is confined to students who have completed with honors at least 8 hours of advanced work in French and who have maintained a general scholastic average of B.

Pi Delta Phi has taken up the study of French problems during the international crisis. The members were hostesses to a Regional Convention held on the campus May 9.

BETA BETA BETA

Beta Beta Beta is an honorary society for students of biology. The Beta Iota Chapter was established at Alabama College in 1940.

It encourages an intellectual interest in the biological sciences and biological research, with an emphasis on sound scholarship. A student must have a scholarship record superior to the average to be eligible for membership.

This year the chapter has had frequent round-table discussions of interesting scientific news, and has compiled the more interesting news into a Science Journal.

CALKINS MUSIC CLUB

Membership in the Calkins Music Club is extended to B. M. music majors, and any persons interested in music to whom the club wishes to extend honorary membership.

The main purpose of the club is to further the social aspects of music. However, a great deal is contributed toward general appreciation of music by frequent "music-listening hours" to which the general campus is invited.

ASSOCIATION FOR CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The purpose of the Association for Childhood Education, which is affiliated nationally, is to discuss educational problems of the nursery school, kindergarten, and the elementary grades.

Membership of the club includes students, local teachers, principals, and supervisors who are interested in childhood education.

The program for this year has been a series of lectures on childhood problems, such as speech defects and health. This year's principal social function was a "get-acquainted" picnic supper at the camp house, which included all faculty and student members.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Following the policy "be informed," the International Relations Club has held weekly news discussions in addition to its regular bi-monthly meetings. Effort has been made to include the entire student body in the year's activities. The organization is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

The Wesley Foundation is an organization for all Methodist students. It seeks to create a fellowship among Methodists, to train Christian leaders and to provide opportunities for Christian service through the local church. It also cooperates with the Y. W. C. A. in its religious program on the campus.

During the summer four delegates attended the Regional Methodist Conference at Lake Junaluska, N. C. In October the local Wesley Foundation was hostess to the State Methodist Student Conference, with Dr. John Keith Benton as keynote speaker. Delegates Sara Burns, Gwendolyn Williams, and Mary Beth Wilbanks attended the National Methodist Conference held at Urbana, Ill., during the Christmas holidays.

Important as recreation is at any time, it is even more so in a world at war, for its value in building and maintaining health and morale.

Alabama College's fine recreation program provides the traditional "good time for all". Varied and flexible enough to suit the temperament of any of the College students, it plays a vital part in helping them to live sensible, balanced lives.

RECREATION Association

Every student on the campus is a member of the Recreation Association, which is led by a lively and versatile group. Whether a student wants to swing a bat, racquet, club, or partner, the Recreation Association helps her to have a better time by providing organized recreation. It offers an intra-mural program of sports, and makes games and camp available to students. The Fun Nights the Recreation Association has sponsored have been popular.

The MODERN DANCE

Modern dance—a picture of poise, grace, and beauty in movement, telling a story, creating, it is a rhythmic outlet for the imagination. The fundamental body movements—walking, running, skipping; and leaping are analyzed, poise from good posture is stressed, and innate powers of creation are revealed in dance movements. About one hundred students are enrolled in modern dance classes.

FOLK DANCE

"Swing 'yore' partner and dance to the right." Folk dancing and square dancing has many a pair of feet stomping out a rhythm to Jenny Cracked Corn, the Beer Barrel Polka, or the Sailors Hornpipe. Danish, Swedish, or German dances provide a vigorous good time. Great-grandmothers would turn green at the expertness of some of the dancers.

CLOGGING

"Heel, toe, one, two, three," and the rhythmic sound of steel taps pounding the floor indicates a clogging class. Fundamental clogging steps are taught. Those who have a flair for more fancy work make up their own combinations to create new dances.

Modern dance students skip and swing across the gym . . . Folk-dancers weave in and out . . . Clogging is more than a routine matter.

Enthusiastic fans crowd around Alice Marble and Eleanor Tennant.

The number of people playing tennis on the campus took a sharp upswing last spring when the school was honored by having Alice Marble and Eleanor Tennant give demonstrations and hold a tennis clinic on our courts.

Classes are taught in beginning, intermediate, and advanced tennis. Fall and spring tournaments are held yearly. The class winners in the fall tournament were: Jerry Redden, Senior; Marian Simpler, Junior; Virginia West, Sophomore; and Cecile Aucoin, Freshman. In the spring tournament Cecile Aucoin defeated Marian Simpler to win the tennis bracelet.

TEAM and INDIVIDUAL

Basketball is one of the most popular sports on the campus. The season rises to a climax during College Night, when the annual Purple and Gold game is played. A team of the most skilled players is picked from each side, and a breath-taking game results, with hearty cheering sections yelling for their team.

In season, basketball is sponsored by the Recreation Council, class teams are chosen, and vie for first place. A first and second varsity are picked from the class teams. The first varsity is honored with a game against a chosen faculty team.

"Head up, chin in, shoulders back"—and the correctives class begins. After the physical and medical examination each fall, students who need their posture or other muscular defects corrected are assigned to a special physical education class. The correctives room is equipped with mats, bars and a mirror, so that students can observe their exercises.

Valleyball and softball are two team sports enjoyed in season. This spring a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators turned out to watch the "Toatsie Tutwilers" play the "Handsome Hansons."

Most people crawl before they walk, but usually people have been walking for several years before they learn the American crawl. Swimming is a favorite sport with paddlers and experts alike, because it is so refreshing. Throughout the season the pool resounds with shrieks and splashes.

Correctives—"Before" and "After" shots are old stuff; this is "During" . . . Frisky plays-and-games students play broncho tag . . . Under Miss Conn's watchful eye—bubble, bubble, toil and flutter . . . "Somebody hit it!"

Wearing their nondescript caps and aprons, Juniors look just once more behind that bush.

CROOK

In the gray dawn, running footsteps echoed hollowly down dim corridors and stern Seniors in their flapping black gowns intoned a weird chant, startling Juniors into the realization that Crook Week was upon them. At Crook Convocation, the hapless Juniors, demoted to Freshman rank, learned that they were to be Flunkies, wearing caps and aprons, bowing abjectly before Tut, and waiting on the Seniors hand and foot. Holding doors open, lighting cigarettes, polishing shoes, running countless errands, trying to entertain unappreciative Seniors—no menial chore was too low for the humble Flunkies to perform.

The Seniors demanded so much attention that little time was left to the Flunkies to search for the Crook, that sacred symbol of Senior privileges and prestige. Even if the Juniors did spend a lot of time "beating around the bushes," that only meant they were taking Crook Week in deadly earnest. Climbing trees, they fearfully watched precious time slip past, keeping up their spirits, however, with their gay, defiant song, "When the Juniors Find the Crook." They prided themselves on frequently outwitting the Seniors, yet doing all that they were asked to do.

Like Queen Victori
the Senior is "n
amused."

WEEK . . .

A crowd half hysterical with delight stampeded past Comer to Tutwiler where there was an ovation for Bushie who had unearthed the Crook. After one more ordeal, Crook Court, the Juniors had their Senior privileges, and the Crook reposed once more in its glass case in Tut. All this hue and cry over four and one-half feet of varnished cherry wood—but then—we know you've heard this one—"the Crook is no ordinary stick."

Top: Ha! For once, no Seniors in sight! Bottom: Bushie, the Juniors love you for finding that Crook.
